History and Notes:	Man used Roundup Weed and Grass Killer Concentrate Plus mixed according to directions one week ago, Sunday, for one hour without accident nor mishap. He wore a long sleeved shirt and long pants while he did the spraying, then showered after he was done. He denies allergies to medicines and poison ivy. He was not near any poison ivy. He says several days after doing the spraying he broke out in red bumps on his arms and legs that are very itchy, raised and are now welts. Some scabbing over from scratching them so much. MRPC discussed the product toxicity. The symptoms do not correlate with the expected response to the product. MRPC suggested a topical hydrocortisone cream and Benadryl to help control the symptoms. Caller waived this saying, he does not have these medicines and has no way of driving to get them. He has a doctor but refuses to call the office. An urgent care can be used. Caller refused the recommendations. Several minutes later, the man called back to MRPC speaking with another CSPI giving the same history as above. It was advised for him to see a MD for treatment but caller refused, stating he did not have a car. Caller wanting Roundup to send him to a hospital and pay for a diagnosis. Man declined suggestion to use PO Benadryl for itching upon waiting to see PMD. Unable to provide any additional advice.
